

BBC Tees – Proud of Where I Live

Is there somewhere in Teesside, County Durham or North Yorkshire that has a special place in your heart?

We are not necessarily looking for picture postcards of places known and loved by all. It could be the industrial landscape around us, the functional benefits like venues, organisations or transport, the people that make up your local community, the street you grew up on, the playground you used to play in as a child, a spot you pass everyday on the way into work, your favourite walk that just makes you smile. It is accepted that there are some favourite spots for photographers – Roseberry Topping, Transporter Bridge, Paddy's Hole, Staithes etc which are tremendous views and some will be of those areas – HOW about something different that still matches the criteria?

It's your personal interpretation of somewhere in our area that just makes you proud, a place that you would like to share with others both locally and across the world using the BBC Tees website.

The idea is to build up a set of photographs on the website: bbc.co.uk/tees. BBC Tees is also looking into putting our prints on display in their reception area on the corner next to Middlesbrough Bus Station. The BBC nationally is developing an opportunity for hosting short audio-visual presentations on line - but for copyright reasons any music used strictly must not last more than a minute.

We are looking for your work to be submitted as: -

- 1 photograph sized as * x *ppi for email and 100 – 200 words of text
- or one print no larger than 16" x 12" in a white card mount no larger than 20" x 16"
- or a 1 minute piece of film or an a/v animation and 100 – 200 words of text

We would also like a photograph of you to accompany the feature which should be in the style of your choice but ideally not a straight passport type photo.

Please complete the short form and send with your piece of work for it to be considered for use by BBC Tees.
